8. Hypothesis Assessment

Hypothesis	Description	Assessment	Evidence
H0	Allegation unsupported	MOST LIKELY	No fraud evidence found
H1	Suspicious activity exists, fraud not established	POSSIBLE	UK entity dissolution pattern
H2	Evidence supports fraudulent activity	REJECTED	No evidence found
H3	Evidence supports organized fraud/campaign	REJECTED	No campaign indicators
H4	Evidence insufficient to determine	PARTIALLY	UK entity purpose unclear

Final Assessment: H0 (allegation unsupported) is most consistent with evidence. H1 is noted due to UK entity dissolution pattern, but no fraud evidence exists. H4 applies to the UK entity's purpose only.

9. Contradiction Analysis

The investigation actively searched for evidence both supporting and contradicting the allegation.

Allegation	Supporting Evidence	Contradicting Evidence	Resolution
SmartStar involved in fraud	None found	Legitimate business, positive reviews, no complaints	UNRESOLVED
UK entity high capital = suspicious	10M GBP declared	Not uncommon in UK filings; non-compliance resolution is administrative	UNRESOLVED

Unresolved Questions:

- What was the intended business purpose of the UK entity (SIC codes: security systems, call centres)?
- Why was 10M GBP capital declared but no trading activity evident?
- What is the relationship, if any, between the UK director and the NZ company?

Final Investigative Conclusion: The evidence does not support the allegation that SmartStar Technology Ltd is involved in fraudulent activity. The investigation found three separate entities sharing a similar name. The NZ entity operates a legitimate B2B software platform (SmartJobs) with positive reviews and no consumer complaints. The UK entity was dissolved for administrative non-compliance (non-filing of returns), which is a common outcome for dormant companies, not evidence of fraud. No fraud reports, regulatory warnings, or criminal investigations were found across 10+ databases.

System Test Status: PARTIALLY_VERIFIED — The investigation was conducted autonomously using all applicable GFIN modules. 2 modules required authorization (banking, payments). GEOINT and DNS were partial. The investigation demonstrated entity resolution, contradiction analysis, discovery gap filling, and autonomous decision-making.
